GRS

Global recycled standard (GRS) is an international, full product standard ensuring recycled products are processed in a more climate-friendly way.

Recycled material verification

Materials are verified to meet the ISO definition of 'recycled.' Both pre-consumer and post-consumer material is accepted.

Credible certification: the logo says it all

A professional, third-party certification body audits each stage in the supply chain.

Responsible production

GRS sites are required to meet strict social and environmental requirements. Chemicals with harmful potential aren't allowed to be used on GRS products.

Additional Standards

The thread for the recycled cotton bag meets the Oeko Tex Standard 100 approved thread.

BREATHING NEW LIFE INTO WASTE MATERIALS

JOIN THE CIRCULAR ECONOMY

There are three stages to producing the new eco tote bag.

And it doesn't end there. The bags can also be recycled after use for things like car headlining or pillow fillings.
